Per-Diem Sleep Technologists (RPSGT)

SleepTech currently has opportunities to join the most well supported team of overnight sleep technologists in the country.

Our sleep technologists work overnight shifts (8p-6a) in our modern, hi-tech sleep centers. Working with very low patient-to-technologist ratios (2:1), our technologists are responsible for running noninvasive diagnostic sleep studies. Working with diverse patient groups and a wide range of sleep disorders will provide the challenge and exposure you are looking for. All of our centers adhere to strict protocols based on AASM criteria.

Experienced sleep technologists will appreciate the strong support of our knowledgeable clinical and technical “on-call” management team. Getting help when you need it from supervisors is what our employees love most about working with SleepTech. Additionally, our CEC opportunities are presented with “real world” goals in mind. Even our clinical meetings are submitted for CEC approval!

We require a minimum of 2 years of hands-on experience in sleep medicine dealing with patients of all ages. All candidates must demonstrate a history of commitment to schedule. Minimum education requirements include a high-school diploma (or equivalent) with a strong preference for candidates that have completed an A-STEP accredited program in sleep. A current RPSGT in good standing is mandatory.
